DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kawasaki et al (5,425,716). Kawasaki discloses a syringe pump including a syringe barrel size sensor mechanism including a movable member mounted for contact with the syringe barrel, a plurality of sensors, and a plurality of flags, the moveable member being arranged to effect relative movement between the flags and the sensors, characterized in that each sensor is responsive to a flag to provide a first or second output according to the position of the flag relative to the sensor, and that the flags and sensors are arranged such that the output of at least one sensor changes from the first to the second state and then back to the first state for relative movement between the flags and sensors in one direction; characterized in that all of the sensors change from the first to the second state then back to the first state for relative movement between the flags and sensors; or characterized in that the flags and sensors are arranged such that the movable member is moveable between a position in which a sensor is exposed on one side of a flag through a second position where the flag is aligned with the sensor to a third position where the sensor is exposed on an opposite side of the flag; or characterized in that the moveable member includes an arm pivotally mounted at one end and having its other end arranged to contact the syringe barrel; or characterized in that the moveable member has an overcentre action; or characterized in that the flags are moveable with the moveable member and that the sensors are fixed with the pump housing; or characterized in that the sensors are optical sensors; or characterized in that the barrel size sensor mechanism includes three sensors and three flags.
